TARBOURIECH OYSTER

Rosied by the sun's rays, polished by the waves, dressed in an inimitable mother-of-pearl, the Spéciale Tarbouriech oyster is unique: it is as beautiful as it is delicious.

The particularity of the Spéciale Tarbouriech lies as much in its Mediterranean origins as in its innovative and sustainable breeding method.

Elongated and curved, its yellow, fine flesh and its nutty taste make it very appreciated by gourmets.

Its firm flesh makes it ideal for salads, steamed or roasted.

Elongated, its yellow, fine flesh is melting with soft and sweet notes.

In the oven or pan-fried in butter, such a perfect potatoes as accompaniment for poultry or matured meat..

This bicolored potato is the first to have been created, and it is French!

Fried, mashed, baked or even in soup, it is versatile.

its yellow flesh turns orange when cooked and intensifies.

It has an incredible creaminess that can be appreciated in puree. You can also eat it fried, roasted, simmered or in chips!

DID YOU KNOW ?

FONDUE

The first appearance of fondue dates back to 1651 and was called «cheese ramekin», after 200 years, the recipe evolved and took the name of «Fondue» as we know it today, a mixture of melted cheese and wine. This dish is attributed to Switzerland, but in reality its roots remain unclear. But whether it is Swiss (gruyere / vacherin) or Savoyard (Abondance / beaufort / comté) the pleasure remains the same.

RACLETTE

Raclette is said to have existed since the Middle Ages and was born in the Swiss mountains, in the canton of Valais, hence its old name «Valais». The cheese wheel was cut in two and placed on a stone by the fire, once melted it was poured on potatoes. This pressed cheese will ensure warmth and conviviality.

WEISS

THE KNOW-HOW

A French company founded in 1882, it all began with Eugène Weiss, a chocolate craftsman who discovered the art of praline and blending.

Labelled as a Living Heritage Company, Weiss puts its excellent craftsmanship at the service of chocolate.

All the products are made in Saint-Etienne from the cocoa bean to the fondette.
